HIGH-PERFORMANCE BUILDING WEEK LEADERSHIP DIALOGUE

THE HIGH-PERFORMANCE BUILDING GENERATION: WHERE WILL IT COME FROM?

TUESDAY, MAY 24, 2011
2:00 – 5:00 PM

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF BUILDING SCIENCES
WASHINGTON, DC

High-level representatives from organizations, federal agencies, and companies engaged in all aspects of the built environment from design, construction, operations, maintenance, and regulation are invited to discuss opportunities and approaches for attracting and training the next generation of building designers, technicians, constructors, and operators. Buildings are becoming more complex and require increased education and training to assure performance, but is the future workforce prepared and interested?
